Presenters: Mike Graves/Charlie Roche

On Friday, Jan 13th in the Temp 30 computer lab from 9 am - 12 pm Charlie Roche and Mike Graves are going to help you slay the CurricUNET dragon. They, along with other members of the curriculum committee, will walk you through all of the steps required when submitting a new course, updating an existing course, or bringing a course out of archives. They will discuss and demonstrate how those processes work from the time the course is submitted to your Dean until it is forwarded to the Chancellors Office for approval. Part and parcel to this discussion will be the nuances between our credit, non-credit, and community education classes. This intellectual exchange will also serve as a bridge between CurricUNET and eLumen.

Spring 2017

Flex Activity No. 202-17
COS Introduction to Canvas
Time: Self-Paced

This is a self-paced version of @ONE's four week facilitated course (with the addition of materials on converting courses from Etudes). The course is presented in four modules (learning units) that contain all of the content for the topic. At the end of this course, you will find the Canvas Certification Assessment. Successful completion of this assessment will certify you for using Canvas at COS.
